New Renewable Energy Bidders

Once the Office of Natural Resources Revenue (ONRR) receives all lease sale Bidder's Financial Forms (BFFs), it will work with Pay.gov to establish your Pay.gov account. This process will take up to 48 hours. When Pay.gov has established your user account, you and ONRR will receive a message that this has been completed. ONRR will link your new account to the entity on whose behalf you are making a bid deposit and the current lease sale number. Once linked, you will receive a second message from Pay.gov. You may log in at this time to ensure site access.

Existing Renewable Energy Bidders

Once ONRR receives all lease sale BFFs, it will add the current lease sale number, and if necessary, link your username to the entity on whose behalf you are making a bid deposit.

New and Existing Bidders

Upon completion of the above Pay.gov steps, ONRR will send Pay.gov payment instructions.

 Please factor in the additional time to establish and link user accounts in Pay.gov. We encourage you to promptly log into Pay.gov and make your bid deposit to ensure deposit receipt by the Bid Deposit Deadline.  All potential bidders will need to create a login.gov account and purchase a FIDO compliant security key. As this process may take a few days, we encourage taking these steps well in advance of the mock auction.

If an authorized individual contacts the auction help desk for assistance during the auction, the help desk representative will ask for a time-sensitive two-factor authentication code that is generated by the Google Authenticator app. Authorized individuals can set up their Google Authenticator tokens the first time they log into the BOEM auction system. (An individual who was also an authorized individual in a previous BOEM auction in 2024 will be given an opportunity, prior to the mock auction, to request to continue to use the same Google Authenticator help desk token that was established for the previous auction.)
